

I fully support XM Radio, and satellite radio in general. XM provides high quality sound and a variety of content, available no matter where my vehicle happens to be. For Traffic and Weather, it provides a consistent mechanism for me to quickly learn information that I may need, especially when I spot a traffic jam a mile up the road; that allows me to make a decision whether to stay on the road or find an alternate route. There is only one radio station in the area (not in my state) that provides this information, but not in an on-demand timeframe.
